1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the principles of the theory of the function of the mind. It is shown that the mind is not a passive organ, but an active organ, and that it is capable of receiving information from the outside world, and of processing this information in a way which enables it to form a picture of the world as it is. This picture is then used to guide the actions of the individual, and to enable him to adapt himself to his environment.
The second part of the paper is devoted to a

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general
the function of the mind. It is shown that the function of the mind is to represent the world as it is, and that this function is achieved by the use of symbols. The symbols are used to represent the objects of the world, and the mind is able to manipulate these symbols in order to form a picture of the world. This picture is then compared with the actual world, and the mind is able to correct its picture if it is found to be inaccurate. This process is repeated until the picture is a true representation of the world.
The second part of the paper is devoted to a
the function of the body. It is shown that the function of the body is to represent the world as it is, and that this function is
